

Denark Awarded Its First Project in North Carolina

Denark Construction, Inc. was named, on the basis of submitting the low bid, general contractor on the $4.6 million Western Carolina University Bird Building & McKee Classroom Building Renovations project. Bird, an administrative building, will be renovated and converted to house the Student Health Center. General renovation of the McKee Building will provide instructional space for History and Modern Foreign Languages classes, for academic advisement, and for student support services.
